News ReleaseSuspect arrested for attempted murder and tampering with evidence

Seminole Co. (October 22, 2017) – The Seminole County Sheriff's Office (SCSO) arrested Noah Hiebert, 19, of Longwood, for attempted murder and tampering with evidence for a stabbing incident that occurred at his home early this morning.

At approximately 1:56 a.m., deputies responded to a disturbance call at a residence located at 305 Pickering Court in unincorporated Longwood. Upon arrival, deputies observed several people in front of the home surrounding a male victim who was laying on the ground bleeding. The 21-year-old victim appeared to have multiple stab wounds and was transported to a local hospital in critical condition.

According to witnesses, Hiebert was having a party at his home and the victim showed up uninvited. An altercation ensued between them. Hiebert and the victim were temporarily separated, but the altercation escalated outside the home. Hiebert then stabbed the victim several times with a pocket knife. He threw the knife down a sewer drain and left the area on foot. As investigators were interviewing witnesses, Hiebert returned to the scene and was taken into custody without incident.

Hiebert was arrested and charged with attempted homicide and tampering with evidence. He was booked into the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on a no bond status. Hiebert is currently on felony probation for possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell or deliver, possession of drug paraphernalia, and battery. He was additionally charged with violation of probation. Hiebert is scheduled to attend first appearance tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.
